ROAD COMMISSION DOES GOOD WORK

Highway from St. John's to Carbonear is Undergoing Marked Improvement
as Result of Commission's Work

Eighteen-foot paved road with stone shoulders.

The result of the Road Commission's work since its inception is nowhere so clearly demonstrated as in the highway from St. John's to Carbonear. In the short space of three and a half years, the Road

Commission has so far done is the widening of what formerly was known as the "Cowpath."

This particular section of the road extends from Hopewell Church to Maher's bridge, Holyrood, and was a source of continual danger and trouble for motorists and all who used it. It ranged from 7 to 9 feet in width, and was in extremely bad condition. Now this same "cowpath" has been transformed into a road from 14 to 16 feet wide, enabling two cars to pass without the slightest trouble. The boulders have all been blasted out, and dangerous curves have been eliminated.

Apart from the "Cowpath" the Commission has wrought many changes in the Conception Bay road, which are apparent to all who have to use

SMALL TRACTOR

Commission has completely transformed the road around Conception Bay, and there are few more perfect sections of road to be found anywhere, than that part to which the Commission has given its attention.

Yesterday afternoon, Mr. Hibbs, M. H. A., Secretary of the Road Commission took a party of newspaper men out to Holyrood to see the work that has been done and the methods being employed by the Commission's operatives who are now on that part of the line just east of Maher's.

The best work that the Commisthat highway for vehicular traffic, and the pity is that their funds are not sufficient to permit them to extend their operations. This becomes doubly apparent when the section of country roads that have been repaired by the Road Commission are compared with those done under the old road board system. Whereas the former use scientific methods in their road building, the latter pay little or no attention to the essential requirements, with the result that until the Road Commission came into being, Newfoundland knew nothing of good roads, and the many advantages that are being enjoyed by users of outport roads to-day were unknown.

The Commission is now negotiating for the purchase of the two four-ton motor trucks that were used at South Branch, and with the addition of these trucks to the machinery already working, considerable more work can be done, as the trouble in many places is that the material available is not suitable and these trucks will then be of good service, doing the work of eight horses.

The tractors and crusher are now working near Donovan's on Topsail Road, and will continue as far as the funds will allow.

The one great feature of the Road Commission's work is that they have been able to get one hundred per cent, results from the money expended.

The Blood Feud OR Love's Renunciation

CHAPTER XII.

Her Opportunity

"As to whether you would be likely to make a success of a stage career? My dear, the man who could forecast that would be immune from most of the assaults of fate!" he said with his good humored smile. "I haven't altered by old opinion that you have got most of the gifts necessary to success. As I look at you to-day, I should be inclined to say you had all of them."

She took the compliment quite sincerely and simply, as it was offered. One of Carlotta's charms was her perfect naturalness and unselfconsciousness. These very qualities had been the despair of many men—Graham Madox among them.

"I told you I would abide by your decision and advice, but I did not tell you what I confess now, that my motive is an ulterior and rather a sordid one. I simply want to make money—not a few pounds, understand, but heaps of money!"

He smiled the superior smile of knowledge.

"It is what a good many of us are after, dear lady; but the most the majority of us achieve is to lose heaps and heaps of the precious metal. At the present time, I am in for the biggest loss of my career, unless some miracle happens."

"Tell me about it," said Carlotta with quick sympathy.

"I am producing a new piece in eight or ten days' time—on Saturday week, to be quite accurate—and look at that!"

He lifted the scented sheet, covered with Miss Viola Fancourt's large angular handwriting, and Carlotta ran her eyes over it.

"Oh, but what a shame to leave you in the lurch like that! Does she really mean it, do you think?"

"If she doesn't," and here Madox's lips shut together with a rather vicious snap, "I'll take very good care that it comes into active operation. I shall have no dealings with her in future."

"Is she really ill, do you think, or on the desk. As she did so, Madox caught the gleam of something in her face—an inspiration which immediately communicated itself to him!"

"By Jove, Carlotta! I believe you could do it!"

The quick flush leaped to Carlotta's sensitive face.

"Oh, I should love to! But do you think I could—on Saturday week?"

"I am sure of it. You have everything that is necessary except stage experience, and that, I believe, we could dispense with."

He wheeled round his chair, unlocked one of the lower drawers in the desk, and pulled out a typewritten manuscript with a brown cover. This he thrust into her hands.

"Don't let us talk about it any more! Take that away home with you and read it over. I believe you've been sent to me to-day for the double purpose of pulling me out of a hole and giving you your chance!"

Carlotta's hand trembled as it received the manuscript.

"Where are you staying?" asked Madox with the quick, alert air of the man who sees something of the most importance ahead.

"I am at a boarding house in Brunswick Square."

"No good. We can't discuss anything there. Will you come back here this afternoon? It's only eleven now. Shall we say three—" that will give you time to glance through the thing. I won't do anything or take any steps in other directions till I have your answer."

Carlotta's fingers closed over the typewritten sheets which lay on her lap.

"Oh, but Mr. Madox, this is a very big thing. It might be disastrous."

"It won't be disastrous! I'm sure it won't, if you take it in hand. Don't forget that I've seen you act in the old Cambridge days, and that I have an idea what is behind. It only wants courage. You're made for the part. I really do believe, now I come to think of it, that I wrote it for you!"

"Carlotta's eyes grew bigger and wider.

"Did you write this? Is it your own play?" she asked with a little thrill of awe in her voice.

"My first, my one ewe lamb—at least, the only one I've ever had the courage to venture on, and it was too bad of Viola to play me this trick. Of course, she did it on purpose—but that is a story one can't go into—"

Carlotta rose to her feet.

"If I can do it I will. I'll go now,

Under persuasion from a friend I got Minard's Liniment and used one bottle which completely ended my trouble. and you may expect me back punctually at three o'clock."

Madox suffered her to go without further parley, though after she was gone, an odd feeling of helplessness, a kind of blind fury with himself, held him in thrall. He had surely been guilty of a stupendous act of folly, and if Carlotta accepted—as his inner consciousness assured him she would—what more certain than that disaster awaited the production of "The Searchlight?"

If there was a more thoroughly miserable and anxious man in the whole of London than Graham Madox he would have been difficult to find!

Punctually at three o'clock Miss Carlyon was announced once more, and Madox was conscious of a thrill of excited anticipation as he rose to receive her.

Much might depend on that moment, perhaps his own reputation as a dramatist which he was about to put to the public test for the first time.

"Well?" he asked with a somewhat startled glance at the small brown paper parcel she carried under her arm.

Carlotta laid it down on the desk.

"I can do it."

"You can—sure?"

"Sure; if you will trust me so far! It is a beautiful thing. If I had been given choice in the whole world I could not have asked for anything better. Let me do it. I know I can!"

It was the right note to strike with a man in the throes of a nervous apprehension. Her calm confidence, her shining eyes, her air of lofty purpose, inspired him and gave him both courage and hope.

"You've been sent to me at the crucial moment. I don't doubt," he said in the full tones of a man who feels rather deeply what he is saying. "Let us talk it over."

"It is a beautiful thing," repeated Carlotta as her hand dropped, with a caressing touch, on the folded paper. "So beautiful that it will be an honor to help you to give it to the world. If only—if only—it is not too fine for their perception! Do you think the world has ever grasped allegorical truths? it has always seemed to me that it wants nothing but realism, bala, hideous, unashamed."

"We'll have a try, anyway," he answered, and his look was somewhat shame-faced, almost that of a boy caught in a fault. "Miss Fancourt did not like the part. In fact she tried to bar the whole thing, Miss Carlyon! She wanted—"

Here he drifted off into technical details, regarding the plot, to which Carlotta listened with incredulous wonder and indignation.

"How thankful you ought to be that she gave up at the last moment! Even withdrawal would have been infinitely better than such presentment. Of course, I have hardly the right to speak like that to a man of your experience, only there is a kind of intuition—you know what I mean?"

"I know perfectly! I repeat that you have been sent to me at the critical moment, and if we fail—" He added, "We shan't be much worse off than we were before."

"There will be no failure. There is a message here, so exquisitely conveyed, that the world will listen to it with joy!" said Carlotta firmly. "You are not afraid of my inexperience?"

"How can I be, when you are not yourself afraid?"

"I have no fear," she said, with a little breathless laugh. "I feel exactly as if this was something I had been waiting for, and which has been sent to me."

"NEVER AGAIN"

NEW YORK, June 22—Water Hagen, United States golfer, who arrived this morning on the Berengaria, indicated to the reporters that he was disgruntled over the defeat in the British open championship tournament. He accused the British golfers of poor sportsmanship and declared he would never again compete in the British tournament.

CAPTIVES GO INSANE

SHANGHAI, June 22—Upwards of 70 Chinese captives of the Shantung bandits, held in the Paotzuku mountain, are in a desperate plight and several have gone insane since the foreign prisoners were released recently, according to advices received here.

HARD LINES

LONDON, June 22—An Austrian woman who translated several of H. G. Wells' books into German attempted suicide by cutting her throat in the novelist's apartment Wednesday evening, according to The Star, but did not succeed and is now in hospital to recover.

THE BEGINNING

MOBILE, June 22—The first seizure of liquor under the recent ruling of the United States Supreme Court holding that foreign ships could not bring liquor into port as ships' stores was made here to-day when customs officials seized liquor aboard the Norwegian steamers Sousa and Smargo.

SHOOTING ACCIDENT

YARMOUTH, June 22—John Kirk 17 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kirk, died last night as the result of the accidental discharge of a revolver which he was cleaning.

DEFIES "DRY" RULING

NEW YORK, June 22—While the Treasury officials to-day were concentrating their attention on the Berengaria, the Baltic slipped to quarantine with six thousand bottles of liquor under British Government seal for her next east-bound voyage, in defiance of the United States dry rulings.

MOUNT ETNA ERUPTION BECOMES LESS VIOLENT

CATINA, June 22—For the first time since Mount Etna became violent, a ray of hope dawned this morning for the stricken inhabitants of the volcano region.

The danger is not yet ended for the crater of the mountain is still vomiting a molten stream of lava and great rocks that threaten destruction to nearby communities, but a relatively small number of craters, about twenty, opened during the night, indicating that pressure within the mountain is less.

RUSSIAN BOYCOTT

MOSCOW, June 22—As a result of the assassination of Vorovsky, the Soviet representative at the Lausanne Peace Conference.

Russia has decided to boycott Switzerland.

The decision of the Council of Commissioners, to be published to-day, instructs Russian plenipotentiaries and consuls abroad to refuse visas to Swiss subjects, except workmen entering Russia.

All business deals with Switzerland are to be cancelled and no new commercial negotiations to be initiated.

NO QUESTION OF PROCEEDINGS

WASHINGTON, June 22—Treasury officials arriving at their offices this morning to find that the British steamer Baltic arrived at New York with large liquor supplies under seal and that the Berengaria was on the way with a similar cargo, declared that the customs officials had strict instructions to seize all such stores, and there should be no question of their proceedings, accordingly, against the Baltic.

BONAR LAW'S CONDITION HAS BECOME SERIOUS

HALIFAX, June 22—A special cable to The Halifax Echo from London, says that the physical condition of Bonar Law has grown so serious that doctors say he will not live more than a few weeks.

WILL TEST THE LAW

NEW YORK, June 22—The steamers Berengaria and Baltic, which came into port this morning with liquor supplies aboard for outward voyage in contravention to the United States Supreme Court ruling, had not been molested this afternoon, but it is believed the customs authorities have plans to make seizure of these supplies to-morrow morning, even though it will be necessary to break the British customs' seal in order to carry out their instructions.

COMMON SENSE NEEDED

LONDON, June 22—In a temperately worded editorial reasonably appreciative of the position in which the American Administration finds itself on the ship liquor question, The Daily Express to-day makes a plea for a speedy settlement of the problem.

"If affairs are allowed to continue along the present lines," says the newspaper, "we may too easily drift into a vendetta of counter-irritants in which such big words as 'National Honor' would be flung about. That would be deplorable and absurd. Common sense could find almost a hundred ways out of the difficulty. 'Tis time to take one of them."

BRITAIN WON'T INTERFERE

LONDON, June 22—The British government refused to interest itself in the schooner Henry J. Marshall on the grounds that she is not of British registry.

The Henry Marshall was seized some months ago by a revenue cutter nine miles off the U.S. coast, near Atlantic City.

U. S. WEATHER CONDITIONS

CHICAGO, June 22—Three states experienced unseasonable cold yesterday, while the rest of the union sweltered and scores died. High temperature records were made in many cities.

The most notable contrast was furnished by New Mexico, where severe frost made it necessary to break ice in water troughs so that the stock could be watered. The mercury dropped to 28 above on the Arizona desert.

Citizens of Superior, Wisconsin, hurriedly dragged on their winter clothing when the mercury dropped to forty.

In the Eastern States, more than 43 deaths are reported and numerous heat prostrations, while factories and schools generally were closed owing to the extreme heat.

Baltimore and Washington saw the hottest weather in the history of the two cities when the mercury climbed to 100.

MANITOBA GOES WET

WINNIPEG, June 22—Manitoba has gone wet by a sweeping majority, which went beyond the twenty-five thousand in Winnipeg City and which was going up slowly as the country was heard from.

The bill of the moderation league was endorsed and the policy of prohibition represented by the Manitoba temperance act, the law of the province for seven years, was overturned.

Under the bill of the moderation league, the government will appoint a commission of three members to administer the sale of liquor for consumption as a beverage in permanent or temporary residences or permit holders who may be residents of the province or guests.

Breweries will be permitted to deliver direct.

The Legislature will meet in July pledged to enact in law, the bill which was approved to-day.

A second referendum is to be taken on July 11th, on the proposal of the Hotel Men's Association for the sale of beer and wine in dining rooms of licensed hotels, with meals and should it be adopted, the two systems will be amalgamated under the administration of the government liquor commission.

AT THE CITY HALL

The weekly meeting of the Municipal Council was held Thursday afternoon. Mayor Cook presided and Councillors Martin, Outerbridge, Vincent, Collier, Ryan and Dowden were present.

The Deputy Colonial Secretary informed the Council that his request for guaranteed loan of $20,000.00 for laying of pipe from Mulhowney's Hill to the end of the 24-inch main, had been approved by His Excellency the Governor in Council, and an order had gone forward to the Bank for this money.

F. G. Rendell asked that the street crossings at the junction of Forest and King's Bridge Roads be removed, or that the road-bed on either side of same be properly graded. The Engineer was asked to have the road given attention.

Newfoundland Atlantic Fisheries Limited, applied for permission to use their premises for the purposes of an abattoir, stating such would afford a central depot, where meat could be inspected and where cattle when killed in hot weather could be placed in the chilled room, thereby greatly improving the quality of the meat for consumers. In this connection, Section 192 of the Municipal Act makes it unlawful for any building within the City Limits to be used for such a purpose. The Council, however, will ask the City Solicitor for his opinion.

Mr. R. Cleary applied for position of timekeeper on Municipal works. The Council has no position of this kind to offer.

Complaint of E. J. Neary re condition of street near his residence, Sprigdale Street, was referred to the City Engineer, as also the application of George Greene with regard to improving Cashin Avenue.

Messrs. Higgins, Hunt and Emerson on behalf of Thomas Kearsey, served notice on the Council of their intention to claim damages for injuries sustained by their client's son through falling over the retaining wall, Kichham Place. The Solicitor is to be asked to report as to the Council's position or liability in the matter.

T. P. Halley, Solicitor, on behalf of Messrs. Penny and Gormin served notice on the Council of his intention to take legal proceedings unless immediate settlement was made for land expropriated during relief work in 1921. It was ordered Mr. Halley be informed the Council will give this matter their early consideration.

Tenders were received as follows:

(1) For supply of quarry spawls for road purposes: Messrs. Tavenor, O'Brien, Stamp, Rowsell and Crotty.

(2) For repairs to retaining wall, Gower Street: Messrs. Noseworthy, Smith and Co. Mr. Noseworthy's tender was accepted.

(3) For trenching, backfilling and laying of pipes along water works

ST. JOHN'S, NEWFOUNDLAND, SATURDAY, JUNE 23rd, 1923.

Hail to the Prince!

On June 23rd, 1894, the hearts of Their Majesties were made happy by the birth of a son, in the natural course of events to become the successor to His Father's Throne. Edward, Prince of Wales, is therefore 29 years old to-day. He is the Prince Charming of the world and is the outstanding puzzle of the universe to designing mothers and other ladies because he has not yet chosen Her who will be his Consort and share, in full time, the Throne of the Greatest Empire, upon the bounds of which the sun ever shines.

It is a fact that no more popular Prince has ever existed. No Prince has travelled as much as he, or met as many people, and every one whom he has met has become a liege follower and admirer from that moment. His busy life knows no lazy hour and his engagement book is filled for months ahead for the many occasions on which the Royal Family get near to the hearts of their subjects. The Prince has lightened the load of the King very considerably, as much for the real affection which exists between them, as for the Prince's conception of His Duty. The receptions which have been tendered the Prince upon his return from arduous voyages to the Dominions are eloquent of the complete and rapturous affection entertained for him by every one, high or low. His speeches attract attention and his latest "bon mot" was at a dinner to a medical society, in which he interjected a remark that the reason why there were no doctors in the Garden of Eden was probably because Eve believed in the old saying: "An apple a day keeps the doctor away!"

Newfoundland, in common with the rest of the Empire, thinks well of our Prince, and hopes that he will indeed have many, many happy returns of his birthday, and many years spent in the service of the Empire, a privilege which none realizes and appreciates more than he.

SAYS MINORITY

IS RESPONSIBLE

If Division and Disruption of Church Follows Union.

PORT ARTHUR, June 14.—(Canadian Press)—It was an attenuated church parliament that faced the moderator at the beginning of proceedings on the closing day of the general assembly. Scores of commissioners had left yesterday or early this morning.

Dr. Pidgeon, of Toronto, presented the report of the committee appointed to answer the dissent made by Thomas McMillan, of the protesting minority, against the Assembly's action in determining to go forward to church union. The report sets forth that the church is a living organism, subject to the laws of growth; preserves the inherent right to order its own beliefs and practices in accordance with new conditions and opportunities; that the assembly in its action had proceeded in a constitutional way and that the burden of disruption and division must rest not upon the majority going forward to union but upon the dissenting minority.

While on his visit to this continent, Marshal Foch made a witty reply to a man who, when one of the guests at a dinner party took exception to French politeness.

THOUSANDS WANT

TO ENTER STATES

Reported Emigrants Waiting in Canada For U. S. A. To Open Doors.

DETROIT, Mich., June 14.—Thousands of emigrants from foreign countries, many of them nearly penniless, are massed in Canadian cities preparing to attempt to swarm into this country through Detroit on July 1, according to a warning telegraphed today by the Immigration Bureau to Dr. P. L. Prentiss, chief of the immigration service here.

Most of them are doomed to disappointment because he can admit only a few hundred, Dr. Prentiss said. Nearly all these aliens are from countries where quotas exhausted in May. July 1 marks the date on which the gates will be swung open for the quotas of the new year. Most of the aliens now camping in Canada are British, South Africans, Italians, Russians, Armenians, Turks, Czechoslovaks, Jugo-Slavs and Belgians, Dr. Prentiss was informed.

"The fact that the Canadian immigration laws permit these thousands of aliens to camp in the Dominion to storm our gates the first minute new quotas are eligible for entry is no guarantee that all of them will be admitted to the United States," Dr. Prentiss said. "We can handle 200 immigrants a day, but probably will not be permitted to allow that number to come in. Only 15,468 immigrants from all countries can enter the United States in a single month."

SERMON

Preached by the Rev. Euan A. L. Donaldson, M. A., Vice-Principal of Queen's College, at the Ordination Held in the Cathedral of St. John the Baptist, on the 2nd Sunday After Trinity, 10th of June, 1923.

TEXT: St. John XXI, 15-18.

So when they had broken their fast, Jesus saith to Simon Peter, Simon, son of John, lovest thou me more than these? He saith unto him, Yea, Lord: thou knowest that I love thee. He saith unto him, Feed my lambs. He saith to him again a second time, Simon, son of John, lovest thou me? He saith unto him, Yea, Lord: thou knowest that I love thee. He saith unto him, Tend my sheep. He saith unto him a third time, Simon, son of John, lovest thou me? Peter was grieved because he said unto him the third time, Lovest thou me? And he said unto him, Lord, thou knowest all things; thou knowest that I love thee. Jesus saith unto him, Feed my sheep.

It was the same St. Peter: the St. Peter who had implored Our Lord not to think of suffering, bringing on him self the greatest of rebukes; who, in weakness and terror at this most terrifying world, had denied his Lord; whose thoughts were not yet altogether focused on Christ; the self-crucifixion and complete self-consecration is not yet achieved. Hear him again, grieved, annoyed, like a child—"Lord, thou knowest that I love thee,"—still that same "I", still that same Peter: Our Lord in his wonderful strong quiet way simply does not notice the answer so characteristic of the old Peter whom He knew so well. Peter was still thinking somewhat about Peter: the Lord was thinking about the lambs, His Church, His Kingdom to be built up—the one thing that really mattered: "Feed my sheep." "Follow me: upon this Rock: the rock of the twelve Apostles: will I build my Church. Go ye, make disciples of all the nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. As my Father hath sent me, even so send I you. Proclaim the kingdom, heal the sick, raise the dead, cleanse the unclean, cast out devils: whosoever sins ye remit, they are remitted; whosoever sins ye retain, they are retained. Follow after the Captain of our Salvation, the master architect, ever warring with death, and building up the life."

What a commission! Twelve ordinary men, their human frailty and weakness the more evident because of their very love and zeal! It appalls, it overwhelms, it casts down, at times it almost breaks us: "Who am I, a man of unclean lips, and I dwell in the midst of a people of unclean lips: for I have seen the King, the Lord of Hosts." Yes, because you have been up the mountain, because at one or another time, however obscurely as through a glass, you have seen the Lord; you too have said "Who am I? A man of unclean lips." Somewhere, in some manner, at some time, you have had a glimpse of Christ and His Kingdom: it came at your confirmation when you pledged yourself to His service and received the seven-fold gifts: it came when in the ministry of absolution you knew that your sin was put away; and in these sacraments you were cleansed and anointed for dawning manhood with all its visted adventure for God and man: it came in the early hours of the morning, you knelt at the Altar for your first communion: it came one day at school, when suddenly the dormant fire of the Holy Spirit burst into lambent flame—quickening, illuminating, and the blind striving after knowledge, became glorious alive with unknown possibility of unproved destiny: and it came in that moment when he said "Whom shall I send, and who shall go for us?" and something within you, perhaps something in your life, answered "Here am I, send me." But in the very dazzling, blinding, effulgence of light which came from Him, you saw yourself something as you were—sinful, unworthy; your very zeal and love as it seemed inextricably mingled with the wrong motives; self uncrucified, and self yet again.

But while you have been up in the mountain with the Lord, you have also been down on the arid plain; there were dark times of black doubt; the world was very strong; after all, is it worth while? Should we go on with the struggle? But through all life was with you: in all He was calling you; and out of all he has brought you here today: for he hath never failed them that trust in Him.

In these days Churchmanship and Priesthood must mean as much as ever they have meant, truly:—
The world is very evil;
The times are waxing late;
Be sober, and keep vigil;
The Judge is at the gate.

For long has the world lived according to its own values; lust and covetousness for wealth, for power, for pleasure; love for the "things below," while the "things above," Justice—mercy—truth—righteousness—it has crucified with its Lord. The wages of sin is death, and to the nations, death abounds: wars and rumours of wars, strifes and tumults; plague, pestilence, and famine: the sorrow and the sighing of the captive, the fatherless children, and widows, and all that are desolate and oppressed: "the world lieth in the evil." Amid all the chaos of worlds changing and civilization perishing everlastingly, because they were not built on the foundation of Him who alone is Everlasting; stands His Church: to Her He has committed that redemption to life for which the whole creation groaneth and travaileth until now; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against Her. For this, the Great Adventure, He, the Captain of our Salvation, has called us to the van, to follow after Him, that we with Him may lead the redeeming hosts of the redeemed through the narrow portals of the Cross: for in the light of this high calling Priesthood and Churchmanship must first mean Calvary; but it is gloriously worth while; for from beyond He, the Vanquisher of the world and death, beckons us to follow, follow after.

Does the Priesthood always mean this? Friend, what were you doing on Ember Day? Do you pray for us? Will you always pray that our ministry may never be without the Holy Ghost: that it may ever be quickened and sustained by Him: that He will—

Bend the stubborn heart and will;
Melt the frozen, warm the chill;
Guide the steps that go astray.
Lastly I need not tell you of the unheeded sleep of our own Diocese; and may I remind you that from the Far West: from the newly settled prairie, and from the great land across the Rockies, our Church cries out for help? Fathers and mothers in Israel, will you give Her for his service the best of your sons? What shall you tell them? Tell them that the Church of Christ needs them, and the best the world holds dear: tell them that the Priesthood is not a money-making position-making, popularity-making, career; but an apostolate; and tell them always that through Calvary the Great Shepherd of the sheep will gently lead them to the verdant pastures of that service, which alone is perfect freedom; and that therein they will find the life which is eternally worth while.

POWER INDUSTRY FACES YEAR OF GREAT INDUSTRY

CHICAGO, June 10 (AP)—The sum of $602,143,000 represents the total of new generating plants, additions to existing plants, and extension of transmission and distribution systems of the electric light and power industry of this country to be built this year, according to a survey just completed and announced by the Illinois Committee on Public Utility Information.

The expansion of the industry in the Middle West is expected far to exceed that of any other section of the United States, as building programs in the Central West call for expenditures aggregating more than one-third of the total for the entire country.

The total value is $278,127,000 greater than the estimated expenditures in 1922, and $387,325,000 greater than the 1921 expenditures.

The building plans in the central states of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska and Kansas call for an expenditure of $206,180,000. Of this 45.2 percent will be expended for extensions of transmission and distribution systems and 54.8 percent represents new, and additions to, generating plants.

DOCTORS REPLY

TO DR. FRASER

Editor Evening Advocate:

Dear Sir,—At a special meeting of the general practitioners of St. John's held on June 21st, 1923, we were instructed to forward the enclosed letter to you for publication.
W. T. SCULLY, Chairman.
JOHN GRIEVE, Secretary.

Dear Dr. Fraser,

In our desire to encourage and assist you in the matter which you have dealt with in your letter to the Medical Profession viz:—to defend our standing in the community, we are compelled, regretfully we admit, to adopt the same method and medium as you yourself have seen fit to use. It seems impossible to conceive a satisfactory explanation for your adoption of the "open letter" method.

As far as we have been able to observe, the net result of your "open letter" has been to further foster a feeling of disrespect, ridicule and disgust in the minds and attitude of a great many of the public for our profession. This is surely the very opposite effect, which you desire. Think how much good you might have accomplished by some other method.

We believe you are sincere and surely you can direct your "attempt to defend our standing in the community" in a proper and more effective manner. We are even led to wonder why you have not made an attempt sooner. The standing of the profession in the community has been a live subject for the past five or six years, and surely conditions are no worse now than they have been for at least a year, and it has even been thought that they are not quite so bad as they were a very few months ago. Have you observed this fact, and is there anything in relation to the fact which deterred you from writing an "open letter" at an earlier date?

The majority if not all the members of the profession in St. John's are ready to follow a good lead by a good leader, and we believe whenever you have had anything to say to them they have shown every respect for your opinions. In this matter there have been numerous opportunities and there are various legitimate channels through which we are sure you might months or years ago have made effective attempts, but as far as we are aware have failed to do so.

Are you aware of the fact that at a meeting of the profession in this city called by Dr. Mitchell on May 2nd, 1921, the following resolution was drawn up and submitted?

"We, the undersigned, general Medical Practitioners of St. John's hereby respectfully submit a strong and insistent desire that the Prohibition Commission devise and strongly recommend to the Government, some solution by means of which Medical Practitioners shall be absolutely relieved of the necessity of interpreting the meeting the reasonable requirements of the people in the matter of Alcoholic Liquors, as distinct from their immediate medical uses, signed:

J. SINCLAIR TAIT
W. T. SCULLY,
LOUIS F. FALLON,
ARCH TAIT,
THOMAS H. CARNELL,
WILLIAM ROBERTS,

THOMAS ANDERSON,
CLUNY MACPHERSON,
JOHN J. MURPHY,
JOHN GRIEVE,
T. M. MITCHELL,
H. H. COWPERTHWAITHE,
ALEX. CAMPBELL."

This must show the attitude of the Medical Profession, as far as the signatures appended go. Too long has our Profession been saddled with the blame of existing conditions. As a Profession we are ready to give our strongest support to any practical solution you or any other person can offer to the authorities whose business it is to remedy the wretched conditions which have so long existed with regard to the use and misuse of alcoholic liquors in this country.

Yours truly,
W. T. SCULLY, Chairman.
JOHN GRIEVE, Secretary.

Bonavista Welcomes His Excellency the Governor

Great Reception Tendered

Seventy six years ago on August 4th (1847) Governor LeMarchant visited Bonavista. They came from the Northward in H. M. S. Vesuvius. Shortly after a boat appeared in the harbor, having on board His Excellency and Private Secretary, the Rev. J. O. Bridge, and Geo. J. Brooking, Esq.

The Public Ledger, St. John's, gives an extended notice of the visit. On landing, His Excellency made enquiries regarding the fisheries, of the public schools and attendance, and then the Church met his eye and he entered. At the school the following address was presented:

"To His Excellency Sir John Gaspard Le Marchant, etc.

"May it please your Excellency:—

"We, Her Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the inhabitants of Bonavista, beg to express our gratitude for the benevolence which prompted Your Excellency to visit our town and to congratulate you upon your safe arrival amongst us. May it please the Disposer of all events to spare Your Excellency's life, and that this old and valuable Colony be benefited by Your Excellency's fostering care. We trust those principles which Her Majesty has handed to us, being again restored, will under Your Excellency's wisdom and talents, greatly add to the welfare of this Island. That agriculture will be fostered as grand auxiliary to our fisheries, and as a sure means of reassuring the inhabitants of the Colony from a recurrence of those evils which have so lately affected it, that public works may be promoted, and that religion and moral education will be encouraged." So ran the illuminating Address of seventy six years ago.

His Excellency was pleased to express his gratefulness at being waited upon by so respectable a company, representing the peaceful and loyal community of a settlement of long standing. "But, Gentlemen," said His Excellency, "let me not fail to impress you on this occasion with the necessity of improving the grand opportunity of doing away with the oft recurring pauperism with which your settlement has been visited. The people have only to appreciate the advantages which lie around them to be a prosperous and happy people, and on you it depends to stimulate and direct these energies."

His Excellency then desired to see some of the most poverty stricken homes, but his attention was wisely directed to the growing of wheat. Dr. Skelton had been experimenting. They showed him wheat and barley of nine weeks growth. He thought it a flattering picture of what the Island could do. The whole visit took up two hours of the Governor's valuable time. His Excellency wished to proceed to Catalina by horse and carriage. The attempt failed, as Bonavista could only boast of two half trained horses and these had no shoes and the party retired to the ship and proceeded upon their tour of inspection.

THE LAST VISIT.

Three quarters of a century has passed and little is known of His Excellency Le Marchant, save that St. John's has a street bearing his name. Bonavista has wonderfully changed as was evidenced by the recent visit of His Excellency Governor Allardye.

JUNE 16th, A CONTRAST.

The landing at the wharf of Hon. P. Templeman of His Excellency Sir W. L. Allardye and Lady Allardye, showed wonderful advancement over three quarters of a century ago. The party was received by a committee of thirty citizens. The Old Veterans were at attention. An arch made of fish casks and a bowery of green spruce bows and a carpet spread along the centre of the wharf for more than a hundred feet, all adding to the romantic appearance of the landing place. The band played the National Anthem and after the usual introductions the procession moved to the Orange Hall with a vast concourse of children in the procession. The oldest inhabitant, Mr. Charles Saint, in his 90th year, seated at the entrance of the Arch, was greeted by Governor and Lady Allardye in a kindly and felicitous manner.

As the procession in an informal manner moved towards, it passed through the second arch constructed of fish casks and embellished with garlands and other fishermen's requisites and covered with "linnet" enclosing cod fish and salmon, all tending to give it a unique appearance. The whole was illuminated with the words "W. H. House Co.

Welcome Governor and Lady Allardye," and on the opposite side "God Save The King." At the summit of Williams' Hill the most pretensions of the three arches greeted the Governor and his Lady. It took a long time to construct and was all done by voluntary labor. Electric bulbs added the finishing touch to arch display.

IN THE ORANGE HALL

The Orange Hall was packed and the visitors entertained the children with plain and practical addresses. His Excellency expatiated on the magnitude and greatness of the Empire. That it had 425,000,000 subjects and only 60,000,000 white people. That meant great responsibility. One fifth of the world's territory was under British control, and it meant great care and vigilance to safeguard all the interests of so great an Empire. He entreated them to love the flag and remember all it meant to them. Lady Allardye exhorted the boys to be good and strong and manly, and all the girls to aim at becoming homemakers, as that was the highest possible objective for our girls.

After the afternoon meeting the Governor and Suite visited the various churches and expressed their delight with the religious institutions. The Anglican Church came first in order, then came the Methodist War Memorial, next the Salvation Army Citadel and then away to the Roman Catholic Church. Three autos were in evidence and a delightful run around the town was enjoyed by the party. From the high summits at each end of the town a splendid bird's eye view was obtained of the town, the landfill of Cabot. Had the visit been a week later, then it had fallen on the anniversary of that ancient visit when the crew of the good ship Matthew shouted Bonavista. "O good vision," a name there is no desire to submit to the nomenclature department for alteration. The Governor and party were taken to the canal, in course of construction, but doing nothing for the time being. His Excellency hoped to see the boats plying through it at his next visit.

The next item was the visit to the Light House and then around by Villa Vert and Lancaster to the Dungeon, a natural curio all visitors are anxious to inspect. The party then drove back to town and at 8 o'clock repaired again to the L. O. A. Hall, where every available foot of sitting and standing room was occupied, a great auditorium. The Hall was tastefully decorated, in keeping with the Town, where such a display of flags and bunting have never been in evidence at any previous Governor's visit. The writer who has had a little part in such functions on previous visits of Governors McCallum Davidson, and Harris, never witnessed anything like it.

Magistrate Rowsell read the Address of the Committee, beautifully executed by Miss Roper and Mr. Thomas Joy. It was a unique document short and comprehensive. His Excellency replied by a splendid address in which he set forth world conditions. He showed that the world's economic state today was the aftermath of the great war and given time the Empire would recover. Already Britain's one and three quarter million of unemployed had been reduced to one and a quarter. Lady Allardye was also in good form. She allowed no grass to grow under her feet. She delineated upon the ethics of house keeping in splendid style; talked of baking, knitting, jamming and other matters of domestic science, etc. It was an up to the minute address, and being delivered in the town of "The Good Vision," it was very apt and most appropriate. A wiser than any of us said, "Where there is no vision the people perish." It was Lady Allardye's ambition to supply that vision in part, at any rate. The meeting was brought to a close with a hearty vote of thanks with ringing and enthusiastic cheers which meant to say in effect that this was the greatest and most interesting visit of any of his Majesty's representatives. Such visits do us good and tend to foster in the hearts of the

OBITUARY

To the Editor—

Dear Sir,—Will you kindly grant me space in your much esteemed paper, to record the death of Mr. John Tite. I may say that his death was a severe blow to all around. He was loved by all whom he came in contact with. He was always known to be a good church worker, for 25 years he was in the service of God, also in his daily work he was never heard to say that his work was a burden to him, but always did it with an eye toward God. Two months before he died his son took him down to Greenspond to Dr. Jamieson and he told him it was growing in his stomach. He was taken to Salvage to Dr. MacDonald and he announced the very same, Dr. MacDonald saying it was a serious complaint, and so it was, as from that time he was for 24 days and had not taken a bite of food of any kind, only ice and cold water. But it was a blessed consolation to go and look at him for all his hope was built on nothing less than Jesus' blood and righteousness. He would say, I will be safe in the arms of Jesus.

On the 5th of May the death angel came and took him from our embrace. He leaves to mourn the loss a loving wife, 3 sons and 4 daughters, 2 daughters in law, 3 sisters on brother; 3 of his sons at home, 2 daughters, Mrs. James Feltham and Mrs. Arthur Feltham, both married at Deer Island, one a home and Muriel, the youngest, staying at St. John's.

May God look down on the mourners and comfort them in their hours of bereavement and sorrow, and may they say from their hearts: "Thy will be done." I may say he is one missed out of the home and elsewhere. But we must bear in mind that it was God's hand that took him from us, and we must admit that what God wills is best. We pray that God will comfort the darling wife that is left to mourn in her lonely hour of sorrow, and may she look forward to the time when the family circle will be joined around the Throne in Glory.

Dearest husband thou hast left us.

Far beyond the land of woe,

But we hope to meet in Heaven,

Where all joys are never told.

MRS. D. TITE.

House of Assembly Proceedings

Thursday's session of the House was a brief one, and was taken up entirely with answering questions. Sir Michael Cashin, Mr. Peter Cashin and Mr. P. F. Moore, expressed much indignation over the fact that at the request of the people of Ferryland, a Govt. Telegraph Office had been opened in that place. At the present time there is an Anglo Office at Ferryland, and the three members above referred to seemed to think that the Government ought not open a second office because it might interfere with the receipts of the Anglo Office. It is scarcely likely that the Department of Posts and Telegraphs will take dictation from Messrs. Cashin and Moore on the ground of economy.

In answer to Sir Michael Cashin's question re the supplying of kero oil to the Marine and Fisheries Department the Minister of Marine and Fisheries stated the oil was supplied by the Imperial Oil Company and by C. M. Barr. The price per gallon was twenty-two and twenty-six and a half cents in wood barrels, and $3.10 per case. The other items on the Order Paper were on motion of the Prime Minister deferred.

Before adjournment Mr. Higgins asked the Prime Minister if there were no reports made to the Government by competent surveyors re the Humber property before the guarantee was given. The Prime Minister replied that no reports were made to the Government. The only reports the Government had were those of the Reids and the Armstrong Whitworth Co.

The House then adjourned until Monday next at the usual hour.

Sociable For Cartwright Mission

The Spring Sociable of the Women's Home Missionary Society of St. Thomas's Church, held in Canon Wood Hall on Wednesday evening, was a great success. The Rev. E. C. Earp, acting as chairman, extended a cordial welcome to the Rev. and Mrs. Henry Gordon of Cartwright, Labrador; and to Dr. and Mrs. Wilfred T. Grenfell, and also expressed pleasure at the presence of the Lord Bishop and Mrs. White. Besides a most enjoyable musical program, interesting addresses were given by Mr. and Mrs. Gordon, telling of their work on the Labrador Coast and thanking the W. H. M. S. for the faithful support given them. The Lord Bishop and Dr. Grenfell also spoke briefly, referring to the splendid work of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon in Labrador.

On Thursday evening the Cartwright Mission Circle had a sociable for Mr. and Mrs. Gordon. The children provided a very good entertainment, at the close of which a presentation was made to Mr. Gordon by Miss Maud Oke, President of the C. M. C. of the proceeds of their work during the past year, amounting to $263.50. Mr. Gordon in thanking them described his method of travelling in Labrador by motor boat in summer and dog team in winter. The money presented will be used to help defray Mr. Gordon's travelling expenses. Mrs. Gordon spoke briefly of the children of the Labrador public school. At the close of the programme at each of the Sociables a supper of tea and cake was served.

A Retrospect

Quite long the battle-guns have ceased
Yet in my memory lies
A full reminiscence of the days,
When the call came to our boys
To shoulder guns with bayonets fixed,
And plunge in the fight
To save Old England from her foe
And uphold freedom's right.

I see dear Parent, sister, friends
All standing on the shore;
The boys full dressed in khaki suits
Like men in days of yore
They showed no signs of cowardice
Nor fearfulness within:
All seemed quite anxious to be of
Their Duty to begin.

Along the green and winding path
Mothers walked slowly home,
Their hearts that once were filled with Joy

Were then quite sad and lone;
The thought of parting from their boys
Had filled their aching breast,
And o'er their feeble frame had cast
A shadow of moil.

Then I see a picture of the boys
Who left their parents dear,
Across the Atlantic Ocean safe
In Bonny Scotland's Ayre,
Training to fight the crafty foe
Who to the world had shown
They meant to cross the briny seas
And seize King George's Throne.

I see them fighting in the field
Where the angry bullets fly
Our glorious standard to protect
And keep the flag on high,
Where moans and prayers of fallen men
Who lay hard at Death's Door,
Were soaring up to God on high
Above the cannon's roar.

And there, how staunch and brave
They stood,
In the midst of shot and shell,
The ground dyed red with manly blood,

Where some brave heroes fell;
Where some poor mother's darling son
Had drawn his last long breath,
His work had finished, duty done
And closed his eyes in death.

Ah! yes, I can remember well
Those Navy Boys in Blue
Who for their country, and their king
Stood loyal, brave and true
Who through the dreary midnight hours
Tossed o'er the ocean's crest,
And now beneath the cold north seas
Some heroes lie at rest.

May God the Ruler of the land,
The tempest and the deep
Receive the souls of those who have
In battle fall'n asleep;
And bless the lives of those who now
Enjoy the reign of peace,
And take them home when all is done
Where pleasures never cease.

JAMES IVANY.

Memorial Day Cards For Next of Kin

Cards of admittance to the Next-of-Kin enclosure at the Memorial Day Services Sunday, July 1st, have now been sent to those names that are listed with the G. W. V. A. Many have, however, been returned on account of the addresses being removed. Those desiring cards should make application to the Secretary, Memorial Day Committee, G.W.V.A., who will gladly supply same. In this connection it is noteworthy to mention that the Next-of-Kin of all men who died during service are entitled to those cards. The space reserved for the Next-of-Kin, at this year's ceremonies is considered the most suitable space available, and is situated immediately east of the Sergeants' Memorial. A curb has now been placed around the Memorial and the enclosure is being sodded. Later shrubs will be placed around the inside edge and when completed should present a pleasing appearance. Most of the unsightly poles in this vicinity have been removed, and it is hoped to have the telephone pole removed this week. Later it is the intention of the Committee to place a low railing around the curb, and to have Standard Beacon Lights installed. A water constructed and gully are now being constructed, and this should ensure that the plot is kept in good condition.

Pleasing Presentation

On Tuesday night June 19th a very pleasing event took place at the residence of Mrs. George Whiteley, the President, when the members of the Girl's Guild of the Congregational Church presented Miss Violet Thomas with a silver service and tea spoons. Miss Thomas is shortly to be married to Capt. Chas. Pops, Chief Officer of the S. S. Manoa.
